OLD PASADENA

Old Pasadena is one of the West Coast's most vibrant shopping, dining, and entertainment destination districts, featuring an authentic downtown experience combined with museums and historic landmarks, to gardens and the world-famous Rose Bowl. Old Pasadena finds itself at the heart of a city that boasts mountain views, sun-drenched rose gardens, world-class cultural institutions, and beautifully authentic early 20th-Century architecture. With historic streets and alleyways, authentic streetscape of open-air eateries, specialty boutiques, galleries, theaters, there is always a variety of options for people of all ages!

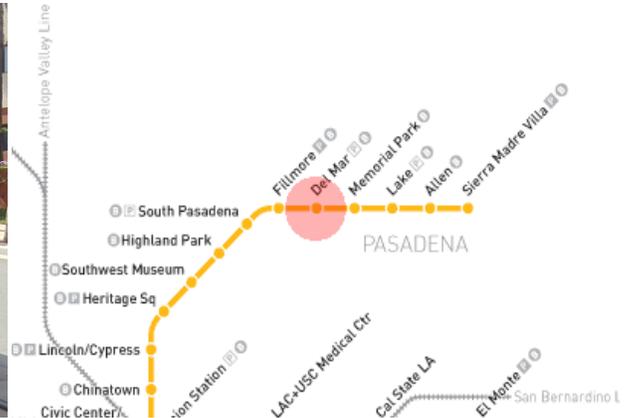

DEL MAR STATION – LOS ANGELES COUNTY METRO RAIL - GOLD LINE

Del Mar is located off of Del Mar Boulevard between Raymond Avenue and Arroyo Parkway in Pasadena, California. The station is served by the Gold Line^[1] and is situated next to the historic Pasadena Amtrak/Santa Fe Depot building.^[2] This station features station art called Kinetic Energy, created by artist Ries Niemi. This station has a parking lot with 290 reserved paid parking spaces and an open bike room with 26 bike spaces. As of 2015, the bike room has not been well-maintained, however, and many of the racks are damaged or broken.^[3]

Situated on the southern edge of Old Town Pasadena, Del Mar Station features the original Pasadena Santa Fe Depot and is home to many condos and apartments. It is one of the Gold Line stations near the Rose Parade route on Colorado Boulevard and is heavily used by people coming to see the parade and UCLA Football games at the Rose Bowl.^[4] During the 2028 Summer Olympics, the station will serve spectators traveling to and from the Rose Bowl. ^[5]
